COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

The special town meeting was held Monday night with small attendance. All articles passed with very little discussion.

There will be a Tax Collectors School Aug. 6 and 7. A portion of the time will be devoted to explaining how the new law that requires towns to end their fiscal year June 30 will be administered. There will be many questions as to how this will effect the various parts of town government. We all hope there will not be as much confusion arise from this as from the snowmobile law. It is apparent there will have to be major adjustments made to implement such a change. At this point it is difficult to understand how it will benefit local government.

We will close the office Wednesday, August 6, in order that we may attend the meeting explaining the law.

S. A. D. 44 TO RECEIVE $325,994.39 SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION AID OVER TWO YEAR PERIOD

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis has announced that School Administrative District 44 (Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry and Woodstock) will receive $165,698.23 for 1969 and $160,296.16 for 1970, for the purpose of constructing additional school facilities.

The funds for this construction have been made available to the towns by action of the 104th Legislature. Total appropriations by the Legislature amounted to $4,800,000 for 1969 and $5,000,000 for 1970.

The funds granted the towns will be made available by the Maine Department of Education if the towns maintain the standards by which funds were granted for 1969, according to the laws passed by the Legislature.

LIONS CLUB PICNIC

The Bethel Lions Club will hold its annual family picnic at Ted Grover's place on Grover Hill on Wednesday, July 23.

MAINE DEER HUNTING SEASONS UNCHANGED

Maine's deer hunting zones and seasons will be the same this year as they have been for the past two years, according to the Maine Fish and Game Department.

The 104th Legislature made no changes in either the zone lines or the season dates, and it extended for two more years the mandatory wearing of fluorescent orange in southwestern Maine.

The state is again divided into northern and southern deer hunting zones, with the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks separating the two.

The archery season in the northern zone will be from Oct. 1 through Oct. 14. In the southern zone, archers will have the whole month of October.

The firearms season for deer in the northern zone begins Oct. 15 and runs through November. The southern zone firearms season is the month of November. There is no Sunday hunting in Maine.

During the 1969 and 1970 deer hunting season, anyone hunting with firearms in the area south of U. S. Route 2 and west of the Kennebec River must wear some item of outer cloth-clothing of fluorescent orange which is visible from all sides. Exempt are waterfowl hunters who are hunting from a boat or blind.

Fluorescent orange clothing was required in the same area of the state during the 1967 and 1968 deer seasons. Visibility-connected hunting accidents were reduced about 50 per cent in the zone during the first two years of the test. A bill which would have extended the mandatory wearing of fluorescent orange statewide was defeated by the Legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiley and family of Katowa, N. Y., arrived Saturday to spend two weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Ames. They will be staying at the Ames cottage at South Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Robertson, Charles and Bruce, of Richmond, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward White, Dorraine, Martin, and Darren, are leaving Thursday after spending a week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keoskie.

Nathan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Greenleaf of Bethel, discovered the turtle near shore at the Greenleaf camp and his father landed it in a fish net. Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greenleaf, North Scituate, R. I.

SPECIAL DISTRICT 44 MEETING SET FOR JULY 29

Voters of School Administrative District 44 will be asked at a special district meeting on Tuesday evening, July 29, to decide what use is to be made of $12,197 in additional school operating subsidy for 1969. The meeting will be in the auditorium at Telstar Regional High School at 7:30.

Basically three alternatives are open for the voters: they may make the funds available for expenditure in 1969; use the money to reduce the assessment to each member town; or to place the subsidy increase in the school accounts to be used to reduce the 1970 appropriation by the district. A fourth alternative would be a combination of the first three.

ADDED RURAL HOUSING FUNDS NOW AVAILABLE

Daniel E. McAllister, Assistant County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration in Oxford County has announced that a new allotment of Rural Housing Funds is now available. Other phases of the Farmers Home Administration program have likewise been funded. With the addition of a new Assistant County Supervisor, it is hope that more rural residents can be helped than ever before.

Anyone interested in building or buying a home and is unable to obtain bank credit should contact one of the supervisors at their office in the Masonic Building, East Main Street, South Paris.

BRYANT POND GIRL TO TOUR RHODES AND ATHENS

Miss Bethany Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stanley Andrews of Bryant Pond, and a graduate of Telstar Regional High School in June, will leave Logan International Airport, Boston, July 18, via Air France for the Greek Island of Rhodes in the Mediterranean Sea. The return trip will be made on August 28. Miss Andrews' party will include 16 students from New England. She will be the only member from Maine. Included in the party will be five instructors. A student from Greece will join the group upon their arrival.

The tour is sponsored by the State Department of Education, Concord, N. H., and is under the supervision of Neil R. Howard, director of the International Youth Academy. Two or three college credits are available.

To quote from Mr. Howard—the classroom will be the entire Island of Rhodes and a visitation to the city of Athens. When not exploring the Mediterranean Island or mixing with the Rhodians, the students will be studying a curriculum of "A Survey of Greek Culture", "Conversational Greek", and "Arts and Crafts of Greece".

Field trips to historical sites on the Island will be conducted regularly where students can actually join in archeological excavations. However, it won't be all work and no play in the Mediterranean sunland. Each day's schedule will contain time for recreation, supervised by the recreational director certified by the American Red Cross as a water safety instructor. Included in the recreational activities will be swimming, deep sea fishing, sailing, motor bike tours, folk dancing instructions, drama, music, and skin diving for archeological relics. At least one excursion, either by boat or plane, will be made to the city of Athens. Her address will be Rhodes Hotel, Manousos, Rhodes, Greece.

This fall, Miss Andrews plans to enter Maine School of Practical Nursing in Portland to participate in a course in practical nursing.

NEW STORE TO OPEN IN BETHEL VILLAGE

It has been learned that the quarters last occupied by Davis Building Supply at the junction of Main and Railroad Streets in Bethel will be the location of "Hearthstone House", dealers in quality furniture and furniture seconds.

Mrs. George Nichols states that the store will handle name brand furniture and hopefully will be open in the near future, perhaps by the first of August.

Remodeling in the interior of the premises has been underway under the guidance of the Nichols' son, Nathan, a student at the University of Houston, Texas, who has been spending two weeks in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols have been residents of Bethel since January of this year, coming from Keene, N. H. Mr. Nichols is associated with the J. A. Thurston Co.

BETHEL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Historical Society has received donations this week of six yards from the Guy Parker family, one yard from Kimball Ames, and one anonymous yard.

It is hoped that a large audience will be on hand at the July 24 meeting of the society, 7:30 at the Casco Community Room, to hear Mrs. Edith Labbie speak on the Maine State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pierce and Susan have purchased a farm near Carmel and are residing there.

SMALL TURNOUT AT SPECIAL TOWN MEETING IN BETHEL MONDAY

A handful of Bethel voters acted affirmatively on all articles at a special meeting held at Telstar Regional High School on Monday evening of this week.

Those present approved the article that empowers the Board of Selectmen to negotiate and enter into long-term leases of real estate owned by the town at the Bethel Airport.

Also authorization was granted to the municipal officers to sell the East Bethel Schoolhouse and land in the event that a feasible offer is made for the property. The East Bethel Schoolhouse was accepted by the town at the March town meeting following a decision by the SAD 44 directors that the facility was no longer needed for educational purposes.

The sum of $350 was appropriated to be credited to the Parks and Cemeteries account. Town Manager Elwyn Dickey explained to the group that additional funds in the account were desirable as a result of equipment purchases that were not foreseen at the time of the annual meeting last spring.

The Board of Selectmen was authorized to join a regional planning commission in the name of the town and $495 was appropriated to cover dues for one year in such a group. membership in such a commission reportedly would result in an additional 5% in federal funds being available for construction of the proposed sewage treatment facility for the town.

Wilbur Myers served as moderator of the meeting that was attended by about 20 Bethel voters. Included in this number are the town clerk, town manager, moderator and four members of the board of selectmen.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Calista Morgan, Correa. —

The river systems of our land are like scattered leaves with little veins that grow thicker and wander toward the main stem. Not all are "important" as our Mississippi and Hudson but some are just for remembering. Such is my Sanborn River. It has character and has uttered phrases which are never forgotten. The very name sings a nostalgia into my heart. The tie is strongest, naturally, because it is the river on which I have fished, boated, swum, and played. An inner satisfaction has been established which can never be relinquished. Grasses line its bank as it runs placidly on, with a regiment of trees on parade—poplar, willow, birch, maple and the pines as they point to the sky.

Because Boat had to be reconditioned my first trip this year was on July fourth. Boat took me, or I took Boat, it doesn't matter; we went.

At the mouth I picked my first pond lily delicate and perfect.

A flash at the shore—muskrat disappeared into his home. I tied Boat and waited for him to appear again. He did to follow the shore up stream unafraid and "King" of the river.

Nothing had changed here over the year. The Redwinged Blackbirds, splendid and noisy, resenting my intrusion into their nesting grounds, circled and squawked above my head. But try as hard as I could I did not get a picture.

We eased along amidst the cool and silence. An invisible breath at times swayed the grasses in splashes of sunlight. The irises were so elusive I had to look twice to make sure they were not merely shadows. Turning a bend, there swam mother duck and her family. But, startled, they took off with "little thunder" into the green to be seen no more.

The forest shade was fresh and cool with satin sky peeking through green framed windows.

The water bugs rippled in the once still water.

I watched where the trees stood out in silhouetes 'neath the sky and was visited by a beautiful blue damsel fly by my side, but only for a minute. Then above and about me, wings glistening, came curious Dragon Fly. He never fails to look me up whenever I'm on the pond or river. He paused for a moment hovering just above me, each wing as firm and perfect as an airplane. Like an airplane the dragon's wings do not fold up; the difference between Dragon and Damsel. As his curiosity mounted and he looked me over, I returned the compliment by having a good look at him. He had the advantage with his 30,000 little six-sided "eyes." I hoped the ugly things would see that disagreeable mosquito also buzzing around and set his six-legged trap to catch her. He didn't so I had to; but not with six legs!

Bathing in the shallow waters was the mud turtle who would swim and peek then swim away again. Finally mounting an old log he dried in the sun and breeze and was content.

I soon reached my destination; for an old tree, several years only a "leaner" had finally crossed the entire stream; its back broken by winter snows. It was guarded, too. Mr. Woodpecker — Harry — I think, gave a machine-gun burst of calls and warned me to come no closer.

So I turned and headed downstream facing natures jewels, blotches of yellow and touches of blue; birds in the thicket, the tinkle of the water under the paddles and the murmer of the stream.

Soon I reached the pond filled with motor boats and sound and headed up where I would tie Boat and leave her to be caressed by the breeze until another day and another ride.

A PRETTY GIRL IS LIKE MAINE SCENERY — Grace Lackee of Bridgton and Libbie Edwards of Lovell; enjoy the breathtaking panorama of Maine from the summit of Pleasant Mountain, Bridgton. This is one of four Maine ski resorts operating lifts through the Summer and Fall foliage seasons for sightseers. The others are Saddleback at Rangeley, Sugarloaf at Kingfield, and Squaw at Greenville.

SKI AREA CHAIR LIFTS OFFER SCENIC SUMMER VIEWS

Looking for a way to beat the heat? Then ride a chair lift to the top of a Maine mountain.

You'll find no snow or yodeling skiers at this season. What you will find are cool, refreshing breezes, and breathtaking panoramas — stretching from the blue waters of the Gulf of Maine to the unbroken green forests of the inland wilderness.

Lifts are operating at four Maine mountains this summer. Rates are nominal, and special rates are available for organized groups and for children.

In addition to the outstanding scenery, visitors to these mountain tops can enjoy hiking, picnicking, studying animal and plant life, and picking the wild blueberries which grow in profusion on most Maine mountains.

Lifts operate at reduced speeds during the summer, and can be stopped for loading and unloading of passengers, so that persons of all ages and physical ability may take the rides.

Each area offers its own unique attractions to Summer visitors. And they will remain in operation until the Fall foliage season. The areas are as follows:

Pleasant Mountain, Bridgton—This is the veteran in the sight-seeing business. Pleasant Mountain has operated its 4,300 foot double chair lift for the past 16 summers. From its summit is a breathtaking vista of the Maine coastal plain, including the Saco River Valley, the Atlantic Ocean and 12 major lakes. Seemingly close by are the Presidential Range in New Hampshire and the Longfellow Mountains of Maine. Pleasant Mountain offers a Class A restaurant and gift and crafts shops at the base lodge. It's located within the heart of the famous Sebago-Long Lakes recreational area, with many campgrounds and tourist accommodations.

Saddleback Mountain, Rangeley—Chairlift riders are treated to a spectacular view of the famous Rangeley chain of lakes. A 30-minute walk over a good trail from the top of the lift at an elevation of 3,700 feet above sea level will bring visitors to the Saddleback fire tower where the view stretches from the White Mountains, north into Canada and east to Mount Katahdin, Maine's mile-high peak.

Sugarloaf USA, Kingfield — Visitors will find Maine's only gondola lift, with gaily-painted four-passenger cabins in which to ride comfortably to the 4,237 foot summit of Maine's second highest mountain. In addition to a base gift shop, lift riders will find a summit cafeteria open for business. The view stretches over a vast area of mountains, forests, lakes and even Casco Bay on the Maine coast. Above timber line, visitors may study and photograph plants native to the Arctic regions.

Squaw Mountain, Greenville — Squaw's double chair lift will take riders to a spot overlooking Maine's largest inland body of fresh water, 37-mile-long Moosehead Lake. Inside the modern base lodge is to be found one of the finest restaurants in the Moosehead region. A trail leads to the Squaw Mountain lookout tower, the first fire-spotting station in the United States. It was first manned in 1905.

"Jesus could give his temporal life into his enemies' hands; but when his earth-mission was accomplished, his spiritual life, indestructible and eternal, was found forever the same." This correlative passage, from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is also part of the sermon.

374 ARE SUMMER ENTRANTS IN ANTIOCH COLLEGE

While most June high School graduates are spending the summer either vacationing or working, 374 first year students at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, arrived on campus Monday, June 30, to get ready for the academic year. Classes began on July 9.

Summer entrants represent approximately half of Antioch's 1969 entering class, as the liberal arts college begins its ninth year operating a four-quarter plan.

Another 391 first-year students, equally matched with the summer group in terms of interest, achievement and geographical distribution, will enter in October.

Frank A. Logan, director of admissions, notes that this year's class is "the end progress of an unusually intense selection process," since applications were up 27 per cent.

The 211 men and 163 women in the summer class come from 43 states and the District of Columbia, as well as six foreign countries. Sixty-seven of them transferred to Antioch from such colleges and universities as Michigan, Cornell, Vassar, Smith, Brown, Colgate, Duke, Indiana, Purdue, Dartmouth and Barnard.

All entering students will divide their five-year Antioch careers between study on campus and work at jobs in some 35 states and a dozen foreign countries. The summer class studies in Yellow Springs through Sept. 19 and reports to work on Sept. 29. The new Antiochians also can anticipate a chance to work and study abroad for a year under an international education program which last year found students earning Antioch credit in more than 20 other countries.

Included among students entering Antioch College in June are:

Bethel: Nancy Lynne Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Brown. She is a June graduate of Gould Academy.

Edgecomb: Arthur Lee Nichols, son of Mrs. Nadene S. Nichols, Parsons Creek, Edgecomb. He is a June graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H.

Gardiner: Paul Eric Denison, son of Dr. and Mrs. John D. Denison. He is a June graduate of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

Harrison: Susan Elisabeth Pollack, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Alexander Pollack. She is a June graduate of Gould Academy, Bethel.

Rumford: Suzanne Hughes Kolleke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kolleke. A June 1967 graduate of Stephens High School, she is a transfer to Antioch from Extension Universitaire de la Sorbonne, Paris.

A $5,500 grant to finance research in the field of solid state chemistry has been received by the University of Maine from the Research Corporation. Prof. Howard Patterson will head the research which could lead to new advances in solid state electronics and lasers.

BOSTON—An operator's view from the cab of a 100-foot tower crane demonstrates new construction at world headquarters of the Christian Science Church. Some 10,000 members are attending the denomination's annual meeting held in Boston, Massachusetts, this week. Completion of the new Church Center by 1971 will provide a new administration building, new Sunday School building, expanded radio-television facilities, an underground garage, and a public exhibition hall. Church plans also include a plaza and reflection pool. Extensive new building by private developers at the perimeter of the 15-acre Center will continue major renewal in Boston's Back Bay area.

SEN. MUSKIE REPORTS

Our System of Government Can Reduce Violence—If Properly Honored and Supported

We have the most effective system of government yet devised by man to substitute the application of light, liberty, and learning for the rule of force. When honored and supported it can lead to a reduction in violence. When undermined, by violent acts and the suppression of free speech and disregard of individual liberty, its collapse can be sudden.

We are now groping for ways and means to resolve new differences peacefully, at home and abroad. We do not have much time in either case, because of the magnitude of the problems, because of the rapidity of action and reaction in an era of instant and mass communications, and because of accelerated technological change which does not permit us to adjust to today's change before we must digest new and more complex and frustrating changes.

In such a time we need to be more careful than ever in our protection of the democratic rights of free speech and the freedom of objective inquiry. We cannot allow debates over domestic policies and international responsibilities to degenerate into name-calling, easy slogans and rhetorical suggestions or an either/or choice.

Those who question our national priorities—and that's just about all of us — are not guilty of disloyalty to the United States. Those who question the proposals of military leaders are not engaged in an attack on those leaders. Those who question the need for specific weapons systems are not proposing unilateral disarmament. Those who urge steps toward arms control agreements are not recommending that we weaken our world position.

The "new isolationism" which I fear is the product of those forces which are isolating us from each other in this country. To suggest that somehow the questioning and the challenging which is going on in America should be interpreted in such terms is to move towards the suppression of ideas and the repression of dissent—both of which are unleashed in a time of ferment.

The debate over national priorities and defense system is long overdue. For too long we have assumed that our resources were unlimited and that our technological ability and industrial capacity could make us invulnerable.

The experience of the Vietnam War has taught us, I hope, that our resources are not unlimited, that all our power doesn't make us right, and that all our power cannot resolve all international problems. We should be learning from the ABM debate that ingenious weapons systems do not guarantee national security. We have a right to ask ourselves whether or not the concepts of national capacity and security which have shaped our policies for more than a quarter-century are outmoded as a measure of national security. To shut off debate as unpatriotic would be to challenge one of the most fundamental values of all.

The United States is and will be a world power. Our population, our resources and our economic strength give us a weight in world affairs that we cannot avoid and that will not disappear. To counsel retreat from involvement in international problems is to attempt the impossible. By our very existence, whether as the result of direct action or the withholding of action, we influence the affairs and the direction of mankind.

Since we are a part of this world, the question is what role we shall play. To suggest a new look at the way we have played it—to suggest a new look at the way we relate to other nations—is the beginning of wisdom, not the end.

NEW PHYSICIAN IN RUMFORD OPENS OFFICE THIS WEEK

John B. Makin, M. D., specialist in obstetrics and gynecology, is the eleventh new physician to come to the Rumford area since an intensive physician-recruitment program was started a few years ago.

Dr. Makin will open his office this week in association with A. P. Royal, M. D., 82 Maine Avenue, Rumford. A native of Neptune, N. J., Dr. Makin received his AB degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1959, and his doctorate of medicine from Tufts University School of Medicine in 1963. He interned at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City the following year; and has just completed a three-year residence in gynecology at the New England Medical Center Hospitals.

Dr. Makin visited Rumford Community Hospital in May as a member of the Guest Resident Program sponsored by the Bingham Associates and Maine's Regional Medical Program. While conferring with the medical staff, technical staff, and nursing personnel, Dr. Makin realized the need for his specialty in the area; and this, as well as his keen desire to return to Maine, motivated his decision to set up practice in the Rumford area.

Other physicians acquired over the past few years, include the specialties of pediatrics, pathology, anesthesiology, cardiology-internal medicine, urology and orthopedics, as well as two general surgeons and two general practitioners. The high quality of the medical staff are of inestimable value and importance to the growth of medicine in the entire area served by Rumford Community Hospital. Such a medical staff reflects significant progress in improving the health of the community. Patients are being treated in Rumford today, that, only a few years ago, required a trip to large medical centers.

TELSTAR REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

This week the Guidance Department desires to focus attention on the child entering kindergarten in September 1969 in SAD 44. Parents who have children who will be five years of age on or before October 15, 1969, and have not registered them for kindergarten may do so this summer by calling Roger Spugnardi at the superintendent's office. A birth certificate and disease history are necessary for registration. This announcement applies to any children moving into SAD 44 this summer in grades 1-6.

Children enter into kindergarten with different levels of maturity, with individual strengths and weaknesses, with differing abilities to learn, with unique physical and emotional constitutions, with special blends of fantasy and reality and with differing expectations of what school life will be like to them. They come eagerly and reluctantly, with positive anticipation and with fear, with a richness of background and with cultural handicaps, with curiosity and with apathy, with skills and without skills, with health and with illness. Some are economically deprived, some are wealthy; some are emotionally starved and others are self-confident.

The kindergarten program in SAD 44 aims to develop physical ability, control, coordination, health, and safety, social competence, cooperation, respect for the rights of others and poise, intellectual, skill-thinking, learning, doing, and cultural awareness through exposure to music, dance and books.

Guidance desires to quote from surveys on file from kindergarten teachers in reference to the preparation of the pre-school child to enter kindergarten.

1. Can your child dress and undress himself alone?
2. Has he learned to put on his own rubbers and overshoes?
3. Is he ready to meet happily the experience of being left by his mother in some place besides his home?
4. Has he had too much attention from adults, or has he learned to amuse himself?
5. Has he learned to drink from a bubbler without touching his lips to the fountain?
6. Will you see that any nap adjustment is made a few weeks before school begins?
7. Is he sufficiently mature to be interested in doing things with his hands?
8. Does he listed quietly to stories and music?
9. Have you fostered the idea of going to school as a pleasant thing to do?
10. Does he have good toilet habits?
11. Do you give him an opportunity to put his ideas into words, listening attentively while he tells about the things he sees and does.
12. Correct eating habits — school lunch.

Guidance with the kindergarten child is primarily a co-ordinated plan between parent, pupil and teacher, with an appreciation of the inherent worth of the pupil together with knowledge, and understanding of individual differences. It requires the ability to accurately assess individual needs so the child can accept himself and be accepted by others at what seems to be his unique point of development. The kindergarten year requires an appreciation of the individual problems and strengths the child brings with him from home together with the implication of these factors for adjustment in his school environment. The experiences of the kindergarten year should be happy with constructive educational progress in preparation for Grade 1.

Your attention is called to an excellent article by Superintendent of Schools Gary Cairns of Freeport; this deals with the subject "Kindergarten Teaching Methods Now Differ". (See Portland Press Herald, page 17, for Tuesday, July 1, 1969)

Miss Bethany Andrews, a graduate of Telstar Regional High School in June, leaves on Friday, July 18, for a six weeks tour of the Island of Rhodes in the Mediterranean and Athens. Miss Andrews will report periodically on her trip through this column.

The Employment Service Division of the Maine Employment Security Commission reports that an Auto Body Repair Course is scheduled to begin on July 21 in Portland. The course will last for 20 weeks and is limited to 15 trainees. Contact Mr. Glazier at the Guidance Office immediately if you are interested.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call from our midst, our beloved sister, Rose Bartlett, and in view of the loss we have sustained in our grange and community;

Therefore, be it resolved that it is a just and fitting tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting her passing, we mourn for one who served faithfully, cheerfully and diligently for many years, her grange and her community and will be greatly missed by all;

Therefore be it further resolved that we spread a copy of these resolutions on our records, have a copy printed in the Bethel Citizen; and a copy sent to her family. Alder River Grange 145 extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

The Rev. John Calhoun of the Winslow Congregational Church officiated at the June 14 wedding of Miss Terry Ann Smiley of Winslow and Stephen Varick Dock of South Portland. The ceremony was at 2 p. m. at the Winslow church with the minister using the double ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Smiley of Winslow. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dock of Bethel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a German original of white taffeta, designed with an empire waistline and chiffon overlay. Highlights of the attire were the chapel length train and daisy medallions on the bodice and Kabuki sleeves. Her illusion veil fell from a daisy tiara and she carried a colonial bouquet of white Marguerite daisies.

Miss Mary Frances Smiley of Winslow was maid of honor, attired in maize colored dotted Swiss organza gown, designed with a scooped neckline and bouffant formal A-line skirt. The semi-full back was accented with a small bow and long streamers. She wore a wide-brimmed picture hat with a long ribbon.

Bridesmaids, attired identically only in blue, were Miss Judi Griffiths of Hinsdale, Ill., Miss Gretchen Dock, sister of the bridegroom, Bethel; Miss Gail J. Wright of Pittsfield and Mrs. Lynn Fulton of Bangor.

All bridal attendants carried a single long stemmed rose to match their gowns.

Miss Mucy Elizabeth Marks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marks of Thorndike, was flower girl, attired in a maize colored gown similar to the maid of honor's. Ring bearer was Master Samuel Hugh Smiley, son of Mr. and John Smiley of China. Both young attendants are cousins of the bride.

Music at the church was provided by Mrs. Ruth Manchester, organist, and Mrs. Pat Johnson, soloist. Baskets of white iris and bridal wreath were featured decorations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Smiley wore a two piece powder blue and white sheath suit with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue dress with white accessories.

A reception followed in the church vestry which was decorated with baskets and arrangements of bridal wreath and iris in shades of purple, yellow and white. Blue and white streamers and bells were also used and the bridal table featured traditional appointments.

Mrs. Dartha Marks and Mrs. Sherrill Buker, aunts of the bride, presided at the gift table. Miss Barbara Young and Miss Sherrill Young, cousins of the bride, circulated the guest book.

Dipping punch were Mrs. Mary S. Knights, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Travis K. Clark and Mrs. Geraldine Knights, cousins of the bride. Presiding at the reception table were Mrs. Florence Smiley, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Priscilla McKallip and Miss Pauline Smiley, cousins of the bride. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Leta Young, aunt of the bride.
